Briefly explain your motivation in becoming an ambassador of Yada Youth. Why do you think you are fit to be an ambassador? (max. 700 Character) *

Recently, I stumbled upon a YouTube video by a local YouTuber, Agung Hapsah, entitled, "Indonesia ketinggalan 128 tahun". Honestly, looking at the education state and how there isn't education equality in Indonesia, I wasn't really shocked to hear that. Although I am very fortunate to be able to study in two different countries, having the chance to adapt in different environments, there are other people on the other side of the spectrum who can't afford to buy food and their daily needs, let alone seek education. Due to this and with the experience I have, I would like to fight for the future generation of Indonesia, so they could get a chance at showcasing their talents and potential.

Do you have any experiences related to social project? Kindly write them down *

Write "N/A" if you don't have any.

Growing up, my parents were very active in social communities, and eventually I also jumped into the social communities my parents are in, contributing, donating and helping children and elder citizen who aren't as fortunate. I am very grateful to be introduced to social communities early in my life and would like to continue handing a hand to those in need.

What are the qualities an ambassador must have? *

An ambassador should be responsible, reliable, flexible and punctual, mainly because they need to set a good example and are representing the organisation they are in. Other than that, being approachable and having great communication skills are also important, having in mind that ambassadors are one of the first to be approached, to be able get to know more about the organisation. Having the initiative to start something new, participating actively and the ability to solve problems are also the traits that build up a great ambassador.

As an ambassador, what is your innovation for Yada Youth's improvement? *

As Yada Youth's ambassador, I would spread awareness through the meaningful projects I and the other ambassadors will create under Yada Youth, with the main goal of helping out and setting an example for other people. I would also not take big action to penalise people who fail to do something, because the fear of failing destroy the creativity in a person. Having the person really say sorry, and taking responsibility/ owning up to their mistakes should be more than enough to make them not repeat their mistakes again. In the long run, I, as an ambassador would spread the word, creating an online platform under Yada Youth, specialising in education for unfortunate children which would be very helpful and useful towards building a strong foundation for their future.

Kindly write down your activities and occupations for the next 3 months *

Over the next 3 months, I plan to focus on school, contribute in a non-profit organisation empowering children, intern as an administration manager at a local custom shop and continue learning web development.
